throughout the year. Remember that there are fewer miles of railroad in our country today than there were ten years ago. Terminals are becoming more congested every year and industries which like furniture—are so very dependent upon the railroads, should count upon this unfavorable factor. This is also true of the paper industry, which is thriving in this section and which is continually becoming a greater factor in its prosperity.

FARMING NEXT

"I have said nothing about the agricultural outlook for this section because I shall treat it in detail next week when discussing the purely agricultural states. Suffice to say, I found it improving and very much better than a year ago. The wisest farmers however are going more into dairying and the raising of market garden products. Beans, peas, cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, potatoes, fruits etc. are becoming the most profitable plants. Dairying and poultry raising alone are bringing about $400,000 a year into this section. Because of the diversity of income and the increasing profits, I feel optimistic as to the farming possibilities within reasonable trucking distance of good sized cities. When the farmers of this section get a broader vision and realize that each prosper only as the other prosper, then they all can prosper. The great enemy of the average farmer is not the natural elements, without himself, but rather those human elements within himself. Creative nature has been good to the farmer, but human nature has been the farmer's greatest obstacle. When the farmers eliminate jealousy—they will start on the highway of prosperity—but not until. The best antidote for jealousy is cooperation—yes a greater spirit of cooperation is what all Americans need today."

General business as reflected in the index of the Babsonchart is 1 per cent above normal.

PUPILS TO TRY OUT IN HYDE CONTEST NEXT WEEK

Trouits for the Hyde contest at Appleton school will be held next week. Five contestants from the junior and senior classes will be chosen after the tryouts in which the students may read or recite from memory a selection on which they have had no help.

Contestants for the Heiss oratorical contest are working on their orations at the present time. The contest will take place on March 23, the birthday of William Heiss for whom the contest was planned as a memorial.

I SPIED TODAY

Richard Barthelmess, popular with Appleton theatergoers, will be featured Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday at the Elite Theatre in "The Bond Boy." Free tickets to this picture will be given to every person whose contribution to I Spied Today is printed. There are hundreds of opportunities every day to report interesting happenings. The effort required to write a few lines describing what you saw so that it will be interesting to the reader is not great and the reward is ample. If there is a chance to save money by getting your amusements for nothing you will be throwing away good money by not taking advantage of it.

HE SPILLED THE MILK

With a crash that would break a $2 bill, a man fell on the sidewalk across from the Potts Woods cleaners Friday morning. He had in his hands a pail of milk which he had got at the creamery and when he got up there was scarcely a drop left.

BREAKS SKYLIGHT

Thursday afternoon, I saw a circle of gigantic size fall from the third story of a building and crash through the skylight at the Princess candy kitchen. The frames were completely demolished. No one was injured.

DOESN'T BELONG TO UNION. On Wednesday as I was preparing an egg sandwich I discovered when I fried one that it had three yolks. The yolks were medium sized. These are the kinds restaurants ought to buy.

ELDERLY WOMAN HURT

At 2:30 Thursday afternoon an elderly woman was hurt at the corner of Oneida and College ave. The woman was pushing a baby carriage and someone ran into her knocking her down. When she got up her face was covered with blood. She was taken to Carroll's Music shop where she was given first aid in the living rooms above the store.

JUST A KIND WORD

A kind word did more toward getting a horse, which had fallen down to get up on his feet than all the whipping and scolding did. On the corner of Pacific and Rankin sts, the horse fell down. The driver got out and whipped him, but the horse did not get up. Finally after much difficulty the woman suggested that the man call the horse by name and pet it a bit. This method brought the frightened animal to its feet.

A FISCHER'S APPLETON THEATRE AMUSEMENT PAGE

RUTH ST. DENIS, TED SHAWN AND THE DENISHAWN DANCERS

Ruth St. Denis Finds a New Use for Silks.

The creative genius of Ruth St. Denis at work again. This year's performance by the famous dancer assisted by Ted Shawn and the Denishawn Dancers is a series of pictures all dressed up in silks—silk from Spain, silk from China, silk from Japan and silk from India. To this creator of wonderful dances, this artist who has achieved so much in the past in the arrangement of exquisite color combinations, silk has come to mean more than an afternoon frock, an evening gown or a wrap, in other words, more than it does to the average feminine mind. The remarkable way in which Miss St. Denis uses silk in the new dance creations which will be seen at Fischer's Appleton on March 14th will be a revelation to all who attend the performance.

In a recent interview, Miss St. Denis said: "What amazing things can be done with silk we are just beginning to find out in our school. We have always taught the handling of drapery as a part of the dancer's education, but of late several inspirations have come to us regarding new and unusual ways for the handling of silk. China, silk, Indian silk, Japanese silk—each have their own individuality. For instance, the Japanese silks are heavy and tough, mostly in crepe forms. They make wonderful dresses with tassels to weigh them down and sleeves that hang in lovely folds from the shoulders, and then of course there are the marvelous kimono of womanly design."

"The kimono which I wear in my 'Japanese Flower Arrangement' was bought in the Japanese quarter of Los Angeles, and it was made by a Japanese theatrical costume designer who took great interest in helping me to select the silk and the right color for the lining the long sleeves and the trim. All had to be most carefully decided upon. I had to stand for hours to be fitted to the underthings which have their own particular color scheme that must not be used for anything else. And then the embroidered neckband and the lovely obi, which is of gold creusets which hang according to the character I play, in front of Onika is lady of beauty and leisure. The kimono itself had to be made much larger for me than for their own little folk."

"Then the china silk—the wonderful full bodiced crepes of China probably have the most marvelous colorings in the world, pinks, such as we must get in our dresses, and the Chinese blue of the 'Chosone' cases, and the pink which is like no other pink in the world. Last spring in San Francisco with the Symphony Orchestra I danced the third movement of the 'Scherzade' suite with eight long veils of ten yards each which made a bewildering colored aura for the dancing figure of Scheherazade. As she came into the presence of the Sultan they rose and fell like flames, and the rose colored streamers of light as the wonderful music of Rimsky Korsakoff came from the famous orchestra under the baton of Alfred Hertz. These veils were of China silk smooth and oily, easy to manage and a delight to feel between the hands. The wonderful silks of China!"

"And now silks from India—the saris. The plain sari of the Purse woman, the silk skirt of the Nautch girls, and the broad sheet of thinnest muslin, or the broad sheet of thinnest muslin, or the Mohammed lady. 'One of my measures is a wonderful black silk sari embroidered in gold tissue which I got from the collection of a noted English colonel who was Governor of the Punjab for over 20 years. He and his wife, Lady Z, brought a remarkable collection of jewelry and rugs and carvings to San Francisco and of the three or four in reality jewel suits, this black and gold one appealed to me most. I show how an Indian woman dresses herself in a few moments by using this sari of uncut material in 'The Dance of the Black and Gold Sari'."

"There are many ways of handling silks, such as managing a thin strip of silk which may be difficult to manipulate but which creates a wonderful whirling spectacle."

"Now we come to the dance 'Sailing' which our children do on this season's program. The older children of Denishawn have played with this great square of gleaming silk so happily, never tiring of doing this dance over and over again. They make with it a seaming billow of turquoise color, the lights change and it becomes the deep green sea and then billows out with the wind and in the end falls like a crimson flame. All this and more can be done by knowing how to use a square of silk."

WHAT NEXT? EUGENE O'BRIEN IN PERSON

Eugene O'Brien, the hero of a thousand thrilling "movie" exploits is coming to Appleton! He will appear at Fischer's Appleton Theatre the night of March 23rd in "Steve", arriving by way of New York, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Milwaukee where he scored a tremendous success in the play. Critics have been unanimous in their praise of the actor and the comedy drama he is presenting and his appearance should prove the outstanding feature of Appleton's theatre season.

MARY PICKFORD'S CANARIES

Mary Pickford, star and producer of the new production of "Tess of the Storm Country," a United Artists release coming soon to Fischer's Appleton Theatre has a family of canary birds. She started out with one pair of canaries which she temporarily housed in her office in the administration building at the Pickford-Franklin Studios, Hollywood, intending to install them in the reception room of her bungalow when it was completed.

Then one morning she reached her studio to find that Mr. and Mrs. Canary had four children. This family quickly grew up and Miss Pickford had to order another cage. A short time later she had to order still a larger cage.

And the last time I investigated she said, "I had enough birds to supply twice as many homes as I have in the bungalow. Now I'm afraid to take another census."

MISSED NANY—BUT NO MORE

There are but few persons who have not seen a motion picture, but right in Los Angeles center of the picture-producing industry, there lived, up to a very recent date, one man who though past middle age, had not witnessed a single cinema performance. He is John Cowper Powys, critic and lecturer.

When he was finally inspired to "look into" the art which he knew held entranced millions of the world, he went to the first place he went to satisfy his curiosity was the Pickford-Franklin Studios in Hollywood, and he made his visit at a most opportune time, for the inimitable Douglas Fairbanks, then whom there is no greater exponent of romantic drama was in the midst of making his most pretentious screen production, "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," a United Artists release coming to Fischer's Appleton Theatre.

MAE MURRAY DESIGNS 'BROADWAY ROSE' GOWNS

Star Wears Dazzling Array of Costumes in Her New Picture

Among the much talked of features of Mae Murray's recent photoplays, "Peacock Alley" and "Fascination," was the dazzling array of gowns that the blonde star wore in those productions. In her latest picture, "Broadway Rose," starting Monday at Fischer's Appleton Theatre, she is said to wear costumes that will make even the most fortunate woman gasp with envy. And the secret has leaked out that practically all of these gowns were made from Miss Murray's own designs.

"I find that all the soft music in the world is of no help to me in catching the necessary mood in acting for the camera unless I have the feeling that the costume I am wearing is the one exactly suited to that mood in color, design and appropriateness," says Miss Murray.

"In 'Broadway Rose' I tried the experiment of designing all the gowns myself, on the theory that no one else could possibly understand the psychology and character of the girl I am impersonating as well as I could after weeks and weeks of study and thought about her."

"I believe that the result is a success. In any event it has been a most interesting experiment."

New Meighan Picture

Thomas Meighan has a vehicle particularly suitable in his latest George Ade screen story, "Back Home and Broke," a new Paramount production, which will be the feature at Fischer's Appleton theatre soon. It was written especially for Mr. Meighan, and the story has human interest and humor. Lila Lee heads a strong supporting cast.

The Lady Who Jilted Chaplin

Pola Negri, the famous Polish actress is on the cover of Fischer's Appleton Motion Picture Review for March. And it's some cover! This entertaining "fun" magazine will be ready next week. Studio gossip, photographs galore and plenty of news articles are contained. Remember Maurice Costello? He is back in pictures again and Motion Picture Review has a good story about it.

BIG SUNDAY VAUDEVILLE SHOW AT FISCHER'S

Another well-balanced bill is on the cards for Sunday at the Appleton. Parks & Clayton "The Laugh Producers"—a singing, dancing and talking act—will certainly score. If this team can't make you forget your troubles in downright hearty laughs, you are slated for a commission as Major General of the "Grouch Army."

Thelma, the Singing Violinist is a little girl who is long on pep, personality and ability.

A decided novelty is Stanley Gallini & Co., who are exponents of the Shadowgraph as a mirth-provoker.

With Spring in the air and the ball teams in training camp, Wells and Sells are right up to the minute with their "Fun on the Baseball Grounds." This is really funny pantomime.

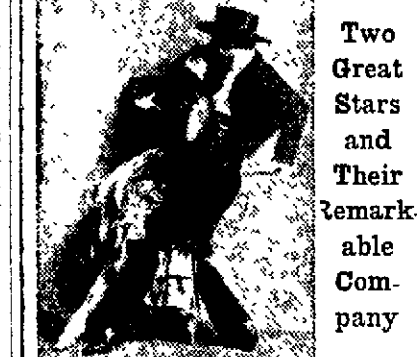

A clever comedian in the person of Archie Foulk—just a real entertainer—will also make his bow.

Snap, dash and pep will certainly be found in the "All Jazz Trio" three snappy boys in popular jazz numbers and plenty of funny stuff.

In all, six big acts that promise a real, all-comedy bill. Better attend the matinee for it certainly looks like Standing Room Only for the evening performances.

PAYING FOR THE BRIDGES

The voters of Appleton will go to the polls on March 20 to indicate whether they wish the council to build bridges at Cherry street and at Lawe street. If they vote to build the bridges they also will vote to accept the obligation of paying for them. No one denies that these bridges can be built without expense to the taxpayer and a rather considerable expense at that. It is true that approximately $175,000 now is available for bridge building purposes but it also is true that from $150,000 to $175,000 more will be required to complete the bridges and approaches thereto. Of the $175,000 at hand, $100,000 was a windfall, representing the amount of income taxes paid in excess of expectations, and $75,000 was raised in the tax levy fixed in 1922. The $75,000 paid in taxes this year represented a tax of approximately $3 on each $1,000 of taxable property in the city, according to Alderman A. W. Laabs, chairman of the finance committee of the common council.

Members of the council who supported the Cherry street bridge project proposed to "borrow" $90,000 from the general fund of the city this year to make up the difference between the money now on hand and the sum required to legally execute the contracts for building the bridges and then borrow enough from other sources to operate the city until the next tax collection. The $90,000, or whatever sum is borrowed from the general fund, is to be raised in the tax levy to be fixed in the fall of 1923, according to the announced plan. A sum sufficient to build the approaches and to acquire and improve a street from the south end of the Cherry street bridge to Foster street would be raised in the tax levy to be fixed in 1924. The aldermen who sponsor this plan would have the taxpayers pay the entire cost of the bridge in 1923, 1924 and 1925, placing the entire burden in the taxes paid in these three years and eliminating all possibility of a noticeable decrease in the tax rate in that period.

It is quite generally admitted that Appleton's taxes now are too high. They are among the highest in the state. The effort of the city government should be toward reducing the tax burden and it should consider every possibility for bringing this about. Putting large sums in the tax levies in order to pay the complete cost of the proposed new bridges in three years, when there is a way of spreading the payments over a longer period, will not tend to bring about the much desired tax reduction.

Spreading bridge payments over a period longer than three years would be possible by bonding the city for the sum required to complete the projects. The bridges will be in use for at least 20 years before it will be necessary to replace them. It seems to us that it would be good business for the taxpayers of the present to pass along the cost of the bridges to the taxpayers of the future who will have as much use for the bridges as the present taxpayers. The future should be made to pay for what the future enjoys. There seems to us to be no necessity for placing the entire burden of the bridges on the taxpayers in the next two years when there is the possibility of spreading the payments over a much longer period, thereby reducing very materially the amount that is to be paid each year.

The possibility of reducing present taxation which a bond issue affords should appeal to every taxpayer. If the $150,000 required to complete the bridges, in addition to the money now on hand, is spread over 10 years, the largest amount to be paid in any one year, including the interest charge, will not exceed $25,000.

The interest charge will be reduced each year as the bonds are retired. Mr. Laabs has said that the $75,000 raised in the tax levy this year for bridge purposes amounts to a tax of about $3 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation. Using his figures as a basis it appears that if only $25,000 is placed in the tax levy for bridge purposes next fall it will mean a tax reduction of $2 on each $1,000 of assessed valuation. Every taxpayer can figure out for himself what this will mean to him.

A possible reduction in taxation is not the only consideration involved in bonding the city for bridges. There is a large possibility that the proposed plan of borrowing from the general fund for bridge building purposes will be attended with legal difficulties. That course easily may result in involving the city in expensive litigation which will not only increase the city's expense and the taxes, but in long delays in bridge construction. If the council arranges to finance the bridge construction by bonding the city it will eliminate all possibility of legal entanglements, a very vital consideration in view of circumstances here.

Good business methods also will dictate to the council that bonding for bridge purposes is much more desirable than authorizing construction work for which the money is not at hand.

The present council has no assurance that the council in 1924 will levy sufficient money to complete the bridges by filling in the approaches and paving the street from the south end of the Cherry street bridge to Foster street. If it will sell sufficient bonds to defray the entire cost it will eliminate all future worry and difficulty. Surely no private enterprise would start a project costing $150,000 unless it had every assurance that it would have the money to pay for it and the council does not have that assurance.

The city is amply able to float a bond issue of sufficient proportions to complete the bridges without jeopardizing the financing of other necessary public activities. The legal bonding limit of the city is sufficient to permit a bond issue for bridges and a sufficient sum to complete the junior high schools in the manner the board of education desires without straining the city's credit. There can be no objection from any source on the ground that a bridge bond issue would make other necessary improvements impossible.

The council has been seeking a means of reducing taxation. Some months ago it appointed a committee to investigate city expenditures in an effort to affect economies, indicating a desire to reduce taxes if such a thing were possible. A bond issue will make it possible to give the people the two bridges and to decrease the tax levy. The bridges must be paid for, whether the council decides to do it in two years or in ten, but the payment each year will be considerably less if the payments are spread over the longer period.

The Post-Crescent has no desire to inject what to some persons may appear to be an extraneous issue into the bridge referendum but it does want to call the attention of the people that bridges, if they are built, must be paid for. It submits that a bond issue is a more businesslike, economical and safe method for paying for them than the proposed plan of taking the money out of the general fund and paying the entire cost in three or four years.

TODAY'S POEM

By Berton Braley

DISILLUSION

I'm always a bit optimistic.
I've always been prone to aver
That people were very much better
Than, frankly, I knew that they were;
But even the cheerfulness person
Must learn—from his life or his books—
That the stuff in the pastry cook's window
Is seldom as good as it looks!

Those mountains of marvelous pastry.
Those structures of jellies and cream.
Those fairy like cakes and confections.
How toothsome and dainty they seem!
Beware, they are snares and delusions.
Constructed by false hearted cooks.
The stuff in the pastry cook's window
Is seldom as good as it looks!

This ballad, of course, has a moral.
A moral that's simple and blunt.
You can't judge by appearance.
You can't tell a man by his front.
You can't dope a chef by his menu.
Until you have tried what he cooks:
The stuff in the pastry cook's window
Is seldom as good as it looks!

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

GERMS ON THINGS

Probably no one else takes such exquisite pains as the modern surgeon to keep germs off his hands, instruments, materials and dressings, and the skin surface and wound surfaces of the patient. The surgeon acquires with practice a sort of routine or automatic habit of surgical cleanliness; he develops what is known as an aseptic conscience; his technique approaches and, if he is successful, actually attains perfection in keeping the immediate environment free of germs. And the surgeon with his trained assistants, and nurses attain this asepsis without becoming even slightly "nutty" about microbes. The victim of microbiophobia (fear of little things, particularly germs) is essentially an individual with too little knowledge of germ life. A little knowledge is dangerous; none of us has enough to be quite out of danger, but a rare smattering often proves bad for the health. That is why the layman should not dabble in "doctor books."

Ever watch a trained nurse perform, when preparing for an emergency operation in a patient's home? She doesn't worry about the dust under the piano; she doesn't even measure the depth of it nor move things about in the room unnecessarily for that would start the dust floating in the air and some particle of dust laden with ordinary pus-coated may easily settle on the wound while the surgeon is working thus defeating all reasonable aseptic efforts.

Door-knobs have acquired an evil reputation recently. In some circles a door-knob has little better standing than a key-hole. "Ours is a sadly misunderstood life," observes the door knob. "You tell 'em," responds the key hole feelingly, "these are your palmy days. Somebody has an eye on me all the time." A surgeon can hardly risk touching a door knob while he is at work. A physician or nurse should not touch a door knob while attending a patient with any infectious or communicable disease without first having carefully washed the hands with soap and water. But you and I need lose no sleep over the door knobs we touch in the course of the day, provided there's no soap and water fanning at our house.

About half a dozen times each week I am asked whether there is any risk of catching any disease from public library books, especially when such books may have been recently used by persons having infectious or communicable disease. Strange, but I have never once been asked by anybody whether there is such risk involved in accepting paper or metal money without a certificate from the health department warranting the money to be pure and uncontaminated. Let's be consistent about this and not smirking old maids. If one may safely freeze on to the long green or yellow as it comes dripping in, why—let's be honest and disreputable—let's have a book that ever came back from a hovel is clean by comparison. As for newspapers and magazines, the answer is practically the same, although, just between friends, a lot of them, even fresh from the press, ought to be hurriedly incinerated in the best interest of personal and public health.

Even the common drinking cup—but I find that will have to be another story.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Please send me literature regarding the benefits of deep breathing and the benefits of physical culture.—L. P.

Answer—Deep breathing is the bunk, a whimsical fancy based on total ignorance of physiology. Better leave your breathing alone—it is an automatic function and will take care of itself without interference. Only such increased breathing as naturally accompanies general exercise can be considered beneficial; even then it is primarily the exercise, not the breathing, which does good. If you mean physical training, that is an excellent thing, an indispensable part of a liberal or thorough education. (Copyright, National Newspaper Service.)

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Saturday, March 3, 1898

Mrs. L. J. Newell, primary teacher of the First district school, was critically ill with pneumonia.

Henry Hewitt of Tacoma was in Appleton on business. He had just returned from a several months trip to Siberia, China, Australia and New Zealand.

Henry Fuerst of Maple Creek had the honor of being the first to return the tax roll to the county treasurer.

An 8-pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Halladay.

The first cooking of the sulphite fibre was taken from the new digester of the mill of the Riverside Fibre company.

Joseph Koffert, Sr., was about to take his departure for Indiana, where he was to recuperate for a month.

William Groth's store was completely filled with bicycles. Among those represented were the Rambler, Remington, Sterling, Trinity, Barnes, Gendron, Ideal, Reliance and Crescent.

John Fountain & Son's new saw mill at Appleton Junction was to start up the following week. There was about 750,000 feet of logs on hand and nearly 1,000,000 feet have been contracted for that had not been delivered.

Mrs. Kittner, 76, an old resident of the town of Ellington, died the previous Wednesday at the home of her daughter at Rockford, Ill.

Raoul, son of George C. Sherman fractured his wrist at the armory while playing basketball.

TEN YEARS AGO

Saturday, March 11, 1913

M. Mack of Shiocton was in Appleton on business. Mrs. Louis Wandell of Kaukauna called on Appleton friends.

The Clio club was to meet with Mrs. Sam J. Ryan the following Monday evening.

Charles H. Vinal returned from a ten days' visit to the home of his mother at Highland Springs, Va.

The body of F. W. Hofer was to lie in state at the Congregational church the following Tuesday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The obsequies conducted by Dr. John Faville were to be held at 2 o'clock. Representatives of the Masonic order were to have charge of the services at the grave. Members of the police force were to act as pallbearers and the honorary pallbearers were to be Mayor J. V. Canavan, Councilmen John Goodland and Engelbert Schueller, Judge John Goodland, Judge Henry Kreiss, Judge Fred Heinemann, and other public officials.

Deserving poor children whose eyes were impaired were to be fitted with glasses during the year by the Appleton lodge of Elks.

Troops from Fort Grady at Sault Ste. Marie passed through Appleton the day previous on their way to Galveston, Texas.

Mrs. Joseph Birmingham and Mrs. George Birmingham of Hortonville were guests of Appleton friends.

The Great And Greater Works Of Faith

(The sermon printed below was prepared by the Rev. H. A. Bernhardt, pastor of Emmanuel Evangelical church.)

"Verily, verily I say unto you. He that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto My Father." John 14:12.

When our Lord was about to say the unusually important He could introduce it by the very significant expression, "Verily, verily I say unto you." Yet in spite of the Master's "Verily, verily" Robert Speer says concerning this passage: "About no word of Christ has the Church shown itself more skeptical. If the Church would believe this it would upheave the world in ten years."

If our Lord had ascribed this power of great and greater works to His apostles, to some great prophet or some illustrious saint, we should have required special assurance of its truth. However to "He that believeth in Me," to the ordinary believer there are powers in reach to outdo the works of Him who travelled this earth doing wonders. This is startling as much as ever, amazing and astonishing, and yet even the startling and astonishing, from the very lips of the Christ comes this truth.

1. The key-word of this whole context is "believe." There are three varieties of faith spoken of in this context: Faith in the works of Christ; faith in the words of Christ; faith in the Christ Himself. Beholding the works of Christ, His irresistible power over nature, His tender pity for those who sought His aid, the blessed and far-reaching results of His miracles, you will confess with Nicodemus, "Thou art a teacher come from God, for none can do such miracles, except God be with him." The works of Christ demand attention. They foster faith. But at their very best they are like the great bell ringing in a church tower calling attention to the life that is being developed and unfolded within the church.

The words of Christ are spirit and life. They reveal the mysteries of God, of life, of death, and eternity. Thru the words we come the speaker Himself. Thus from words and works we come to faith in the Lord Himself, a faith which unites us with Him in an indissoluble union so that we become one with Him, even made partakers of a common life thru the regeneration of the Holy Spirit. The word we speak are not then from ourselves but He that dwelleth in us doeth the works.

2. Faith works. True faith has Christ for its supreme object and works. When Jesus is such a vital part of us we cannot but work out that which He is working within our lives. There are two kinds of works indicated. 1. The Great Works of Faith. The ministry of Christ while on earth proved a blessing to thousands of sufferers. But Christ said, "He that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also." The labors and works of the apostles attest to the truth of these words of Christ. We need only refer to the lame man at the Beautiful Gate of the temple, to Ananias, to Dorcas, to the miracles wrought by Paul in the name of Jesus at Phaphos, at Lystra, Malta and Philippi. The reason why the same or identical miracles have perhaps ceased in our day is that the Holy Spirit does not deem them necessary. 2. The Greater Works of Faith.

Already its a greater thing in our day for a soul to believe the Christ for truth's sake than when in His day there were those who believed for work's sake. It's not because the servant is greater than the lord. The works that the servant does, he doeth because his Lord is with him and working thru him. The manifestation of the Christ in His humiliation is not as great nor as glorious as His manifestations in the times of His glory thru His own. It seems the comparison is drawn between the limited sphere and the small results of the works of Christ upon the earth and the world-wide sweep and majestic magnitude of that work being applied by His followers. Redemption must be first completed, Christ must first die and rise from the dead, even ascend into heaven before it ever could be proclaimed in word and you and I can now testify and tell to all the world that Christ died for our sins and was raised for our justification.

Jesus did lay His hand upon a few sick folk and healed them and at the end of His life there were 120 disciples in Jerusalem and 500 in Galilee. How different today! The world is being leavened with the Gospel and the kingdoms of the earth are beginning to recognize His name and becoming the kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ. Think of the ministry of the Church. Peter on Pentecost wins 3,000 souls for Christ thru a single sermon. Soon the great Roman Empire which crucified Jesus became submissive to the Cross. The existence of the Church in our day in all her activities is the most wonderful of miracles. The harvest-time must be greater than the seed-time.

These great works are not dishonoring the Christ. They are His glory. Never before were the opportunities so abundant for doing great things for God. Doors are open everywhere. "He that winneth souls is wise" even today. All knowledge and all science is now at your command.

III. The Source of the Great and Greater Works of Faith. "Because I go unto My Father." The work of redemption was finished and Jesus went to the Father. However He sent the ask, Siberia, the thermometer has registered as low as between 90 degrees and 100 degrees below zero.

Q. How is the name Glammis in Masbeth pronounced? D. N. E.

A. The name of this castle, near Strathmore, Scotland, is pronounced as if spelled "glams," and the "a" is broad.

Q. What is a squaw man? N. S. A. This term is used to describe an Indian man who does a woman's work. It also applies to a white man who marries an Indian woman and goes to live with her tribe.

Q. Will you please tell me the names of the children of the present King George V of England? S. B.

A. The children of King George and Queen Mary of England are as follows: Prince of Wales—Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David; Prince Albert Frederick Arthur George; Princess Mary (Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary); Prince Henry William Frederick Albert; Prince George Edward Alexander John; Princess Louise (died Jan. 18, 1919).

Q. Did some kind of a skull figure at the Versailles Peace Treaty? R. O.

A. The insertion in the peace treaty of the demand that the Germans deliver to the British the skull of the Sultan Alkawa has reference to German colonial possessions in Africa. The skull is to the native a symbol of sovereignty and as such is a key to the territory involved, which is nearly twice the size of Germany. This territory lies northwest of Lake Nyassa. When the Germans defeated the natives they obtained possession of the skull and it helped to open up the colonization of German East Africa.

Q. Is Army itch the same as Norwegian itch? P. J. E.

A. Scabies is variously known as the itch, Norwegian itch, Cuban itch, seven years' itch, French itch, Army itch.

Q. Is the origin of the hat band known? E. F. F.

A. The band on a man's hat is said to have its origin in medieval times, when a knight tied the scarf of his lady around his helmet.

Q. Were there any interesting circumstances attached to the writing of "Onward Christian Soldiers"? H. V.

A. The hymn was composed by the Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould for the village children of Highbury who at Whitsuntide paraded through Highbury. To enliven the steep climb of more than a mile, and to help in maintaining order the composer wrote "Onward Christian Soldiers." The hymn was written at St. Peter's vicarage and was completed in a few minutes.

Q. Which attains the greater size—an alligator or a crocodile? D. N. X.

A. The crocodile grows to be very much larger than the alligator. Some have been known to grow as long as 30 feet.

Q. How long was the Greek Marathon race? C. L. A.

A. The runner who carried the message of Greek victory after the battle of Marathon traveled about 24 miles.

Q. What were Lincoln's nicknames? I. M. C.

A. He was known as Honest Abe and Father Abraham.

Q. What was Lincoln's religion? H. P. X.

A. Lincoln is quoted as having made the following statement to a friend on this subject: "I have, all my life been a fatalist. What is to be will be or rather I have found all my life as Hamlet says 'There is a Divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will.'" Mr. Lincoln's wife has stated that Abraham Lincoln had no religious faith in the usual acceptance of that word, but with him religion was a sort of poetry in his nature. "Twice," says Mrs. Lincoln, "he seemed to think especially about religion, once when we lost our son William, and the second time when he went to Gettysburg." Mr. Lincoln's secretary while he was president is quoted as having said that "No man on earth had firmer faith in Providence than Abraham Lincoln. He believed in God and immortality, but did not believe in eternal punishment, but in rest after this life. He valued the truths of the Bible and while he belonged to no denomination he made the Golden Rule of Christ his practical creed." Lincoln, like many other great men, was not what might be technically called a Christian. He never joined a church, although he was always spoken of as of a very religious nature.

Plans Made For Bazaar By Women

Committees Appointed For Money-making Event For New Building

Chairmen and subchairmen of the divisions of the building committee of Appleton Women's club met at Hotel Appleton on Friday evening to discuss plans for the bazaar which the entire committee will give for the building fund at Appleton during the middle of April. Committees were appointed but the individual activities of each section were left until some future meeting.

Mrs. J. E. Thomas will be general chairman of the meals which are to be served with the sections of which Mrs. George Wettenzel and Mrs. J. L. Johns are chairmen assisting. They will also be assisted by a girl scout division from the recreation department committees. Mrs. T. A. Gallagher's division will have charge of the candy booth. Mrs. H. K. Pratt's division of the delicatessen shop. Mrs. John Neller's group of the batik and fancy work section and Mrs. Thomas Long's division of the ice cream and other light refreshments.

Mrs. Neller's group will be assisted by Miss Cathleen McCutcheon's division of the recreation department which includes aesthetic, social and folk dancing classes. Pine Tree and Woodcraft clubs which will contribute articles of bakery and fancy work. Miss Marion Ingenthron's division will also assist Mrs. Neller and will contribute practical things such as underwear and aprons.

Other things which the recreation department division has planned include some sort of bowling game to be run by Miss Lynda Hummel's division which includes the bowling leagues and the Tuttle Press club. Miss Stephana Schumacher's group will plan entertainment for the bazaar and the T. M. T. M. group will provide a fish pond. Florence Beaman's camp fire girl group will have a flower stunt. These are a few of the things which have been definitely assigned to the various committees, but the plans are just beginning for the great event of the club.

PASTOR TO SPEAK ON WHAT TO EXPECT FROM THE CHURCH

Interesting Sermons Will Be Delivered In Kaukauna Churches Sunday

Kaukauna.—"What may we expect from the church?" will be the subject of the sermon to be given by the Rev. W. P. Huilen in Methodist church at 7:30 Sunday evening. It will be a 60 minute service and will follow the regular meeting of the Epworth League which begins at 6:45. The topic for discussion is "What Jesus Thought of Folk." During morning services at 10:30 the pastor will preach on the subject "Folk of Religion in the community's life."

Final plans for the Men's club banquet to be held in the near future will be made at a meeting of that club.

Special musical numbers will be featured at both morning and evening services Sunday in First Congregational church. During the evening service, which begins at 7:30, the Rev. Daniel Woodward, pastor, will give an address on "Modern Souls with the Witch of Endor." During morning worship at 11 o'clock, the pastor will give a sermon on the subject "The atmosphere of influence. Regular Christian Endeavor meeting will be held at 6:45.

The Rev. E. L. Worthman, pastor of Reformed church, will continue his series of Lenten services Sunday. The morning services at 10:15 will be held in the German language. "Welchusee, a type of Christ" will be the sermon topic. A story of Jesus' trial before Pontius Pilate will be given by the pastor during his sermon at evening service.

Truck and street car collide; truck damaged

Kaukauna.—No one was injured but a Ford truck was quite badly damaged when it collided with the 445 interurban car at the corner of Wisconsin-ave and Lawest just as the bus car was making the turn about 100 feet from the terminal. The truck was being driven by Ben Vendeyarch, who said he did not see the street car approaching. The front of the truck was demolished. One front wheel was knocked completely off.

KAUKAUNA POLICE COLLECTING TAXES

Kaukauna.—Unpaid taxes were turned over to the chief of police Friday morning for collection. Kaukauna taxpayers who failed to get their tax bills paid in the two months allotted to them will now be required to pay an additional 5 per cent. On Wednesday the last day allowed for payment of taxes at the regular rate, City Treasurer B. J. Mitchka, was forced to remain in his office until 10:30 to accommodate late arrivals. Between twenty-nine and thirty thousand dollars was collected on that day. Mr. Mitchka is still in his office and is receiving a few payments but is charging the penalty of 5 per cent.

Social Items

Kaukauna.—The Bridge club met Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mulholland, Toloceno st. Three tables were in play and prizes were won by Frank Charlesworth, Jr. and Mrs. Edward Haas. The next club meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Zekind.

DE MOLAY CAGERS WIN IN OSHKOSH

Kaukauna.—Staking a comeback late in the second period, the local De Molay basketball team defeated the Oshkosh DeMolay team by a score of 27 to 24 in Oshkosh high school gymnasium Friday evening. Although both teams were slow in getting started and action lagged in the first few minutes, there was plenty of excitement in the late stages of the fracas. After being almost swamped by the home team the Kaukauna boys sprung a surprise and after taking the lead held it for the final five minutes of play.

Two long shots, one from nearly three fourths of the length of the floor, dropped in by McRae, were features of the game, although Hotchkiss considered one of the best high school forwards in the valley, made several long shots in the first half.

The Kaukauna team included McRae, center; Winge, MacIntyre and Ristau, forwards; Frank and Trams, guards.

YOUTH, HURT IN SCHOOL LAST YEAR, STILL SUFFERS

Kaukauna.—Willis Luckow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Luckow, has returned from the hospital in Fond du Lac, where he submitted to an operation on his hand. The middle finger of his left hand was removed from the tip to the base of his wrist. The amputation was due to bone trouble as a result of an accident at the high school on Ash Wednesday last year, before guards were placed on the circle saw in the manual training rooms. The injury developed complications and in May Luckow submitted to an operation for the removal of a bone in the hand, which failed to cure it.

WOODWARD SUMS UP HIS SERVICE AS PASTOR, WARDEN

Explains To Milwaukee Newspaper Why He Changed Denominations

The Rev. Daniel Woodward, pastor of the Congregational church at Kaukauna, and former warden of the Wisconsin state penitentiary, in a communication printed in a Milwaukee newspaper set forth his record in the ministry and in Wisconsin. The communication was in reply to an article in the newspaper to Mr. Woodward's work and record.

Here is the clergyman's letter: "With reference to a recent statement published in the Milwaukee Sentinel relative to my work and record I request that the following statement be published in fairness to all concerned, to clarify my public life and standing in the minds of your readers.

"In the campaign of 1910 the temperance forces of Wisconsin were divided on the question of county option. My record will show that I have stood with the temperance cause through life, but on the question of county option with many other temperance men I was opposed to the issue. I also believed that Francis E. McGovern was the man for Governor in that campaign. I exercised the right of an American citizen in reaching a personal decision and in taking an active part in the campaign.

CHANGE WAS MADE "At the next Wisconsin annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church the matter was discussed pro and con and when all was over and the bishop had made a formal statement of the necessary authority of a bishop and district superintendent in the policy of that church I was still a "minister in good standing" and down for an appointment at that conference. Upon the explanatory statement of the necessary authority of the officers of the church I withdrew from the membership and ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church and at once went into the membership and ministry of the Congregational church, believing their system of church government was more in harmony with my opinions. I did not "leave the ministry" nor was I asked "to acknowledge I was wrong." It was simply the matter of a choice on my part as to the selection of the work of the ministry between two great, splendid Christian denominations which have a very difference in their system of government. Thus I have continued an ordained clergyman through the years including the period of my official work.

TELLS OF HIS WORK "I think my official work as a member of the state board of control and Governor in making the appointment of later as warden of the Wisconsin state prison has fully justified Gov. McMe to offices of trust. At the prison, the hospital for the criminal insane was built, the Binder Twine plant placed in operation with successful operation and a place made for its product on the market, the twine warehouse built and equipped, the large lining room and store building built and equipped to permit the inmates to eat the three meals at the table, the southwest cell house was built and equipped, the honor system placed in operation and successfully operated, the baseball park within the walls prepared and the prisoners taken out into the park on Sundays holidays and Saturday half holiday and many other like forward movements were successfully placed in operation during my administration. After four years' successful work I checked out of the wardenship with an absolutely clear record as an official.

LECTURE ON PENOLOGY "Since I closed my official work I have served four Congregational parishes, and am now in regular charge of the fourth, parishes. I am a regular lecturer on Penology with one of the large chautauqua bureaus, my parishes releasing me for that service three months of the year. I have been for four years grand chaplain of the Masonic Grand Council of Wisconsin. I am filling lecture dates as a platform lecturer on Penology for colleges and churches of various denominations in this and other states. "Mr. Editor, it is only justice to the untold thousands of people whom I am serving annually that the above facts be published in fairness to all concerned, and I so request.

EDUCATORS STUDY H. S. TEST IDEA

Rasey Asked To Explain Mental Analysis At National Convention

Appleton's system of classifying students in high school according to their ability proved of unusual interest to many of the educators who attended the National Educational Association division conventions in Cleveland this week. Lee C. Rasey, principal of Appleton high school, was present at a meeting where mental tests and classifications according to tests were discussed by the head master of a well known private school. One of the educators raised an objection to the statements made because he felt they could not be applied to public schools and asked if there was anyone there who had ever tried it.

This system has been introduced in Appleton high school and Mr. Rasey explained it briefly. He was asked by at least ten men to send them a written explanation of the system so they might include it in their programs. The Appleton plan proved itself to be even more flexible than the one suggested at the convention.

Mr. Rasey returned from the convention on Friday morning. While in Cleveland he had a chance to be present at the meeting of the national committee on school planning and structures. He also had an opportunity of visiting the building exhibit at which the plans of a large part of the school structures of the past year were exhibited. He attended many meetings of national importance.

Miss Mary Louise Brown of Lawrence college is attending the dean-of-women's section convention. Mr. Rasey said some of the finest speakers had been secured for that section.

The Jewett Six Sedan weighs enough to be comfortable over the roughest roads. It is safe under all conditions; enduring. The highest-powered sedan of its size and weight, Jewett has but 12½ pounds of weight for each cubic inch of piston displacement. Other cars of its size have 15 to 20 pounds.

The resulting "open-car" performance of the Jewett Sedan is what you might expect from a Paige-designed, Paige-built car. And remember, the Jewett is the only car of its price and class that is built by a maker of high-grade cars!

To its fascinating ease of handling, Jewett adds distinguished comfort which every woman will appreciate. It is upholstered in French blue, long-wearing wool fabric. All wanted appointments are furnished. The seats are soft and comfortable. Everything is roomy and handy—luxurious. All this, mind you, in a full steel-paneled body—sturdily built to endure with the chassis.

What a delight to a woman driver is such a car! From 2 to 60 miles an hour, by the mere pressure of her foot on the accelerator. No need to change gears in rounding corners or following slow traffic. And on the rare occasions when gear-shifting is needed, it is delightfully easy. Jewett, with its Paige-type clutch, positively amazes those who are accustomed to pause to avoid clash or "missing." Change gears fast or slow. Let in the clutch as fast as you can move your foot. You cannot jerk the car nor stall the motor.

And one of the finest things about the Jewett is the certainty of its endurance. No motor was ever better oiled—and lubrication is life. With the Jewett high-pressure, hollow crankshaft oiling system, 2 gallons of oil per minute are forced through all main and connecting-rod bearings.

You've a new sensation in store when you drive this enclosed Jewett. See for yourself what the sedan with "open-car performance" would mean to you and your family. Jewett quality welcomes investigation. Jewett reputation rests on facts all can prove!

Welcome Sign Hangs On Door Of Tax Office

There is more than one way of telling a man how glad you are to see him, is the belief of Anton Oppgaard, acting assessor of incomes. When his vocabulary is exhausted in this respect, he begins to requisition other languages.

For some time he has noticed that prospective income taxpayers get as far as the door of the income office in the court house, but there their courage fails and they suddenly develop a case of pocketbook cramps. Here is where the assessor comes to the rescue and makes the timid one welcome by a remark as, "Ah, I hope it's a fat one."

The very sign on his door oozes out friendliness by the bushel. It says: "Come In"—"Kommen Sie Herein"—"Entre"—"Entrat"—"Ga In"—"Empos"—and "B&X"!!!

JUNIOR H. S. ROOM IS LEADER IN SAVINGS

The Junior session room of Appleton high school has had the thrift banner of Thrift Incorporated, the high school bank, for three weeks and members of the session room group say that they will keep it for the remainder of the year. The banner is given each week to the room which has the highest percentage of students contributing to their bank accounts.

On Feb. 15, the room had a percentage of 54, on Feb. 19 of 92 and on March 1 of 92. Even those students who are absent and are not able to put in their money on bank day lower the average of the room. This session room seems to have more interest in banking than any other in the school.

The split-skirt type of light-weight alloy piston now accepted practice in most good engines, was first successfully used in the good Maxwell. These pistons lighten the labor of the engine, give more power for propulsion, reduce fuel consumption, and generally improve performance. They are but one indication of the fine way in which the good Maxwell is designed and made.

VAL of PARADISE

by Dingle S. Roe

 AS he rode he thought of many things—and these thoughts were sweet with comfort. He had broken that oath, made on his father's body, and he was traitor to his given word. But love had made him traitor—and who in this world so good a lover as that grand old man had been?
 When they met, as Velantrie devoutly hoped they would, it would be clean hands they struck together and he could carry a richer gift to show than that black revenge he had sought so long—the holy gift of sacrifice.

At the pass three more men had joined the ambuscade—men from the Flying V.
 The net closed in along the cliffs—from north to south. To the two riders sweeping eastward in the center, the wall of the cliffs rose dark against the moon. Soon the long black arm of that ghastly gallow's tree, that Cruz Oak, would stand tranquilly against the moon! The girl's heart quaked in her breast and she touched the stallion's neck. It was scarcely damp.

She became conscious of a rider on her right, going straight toward the pass. She strained her eyes and her ears. From behind she could hear the long-roll of running horses—drawing in—drawing in!
 Was it Velantrie? The horse beneath him seemed vaguely familiar, though it was so far away. There was something familiar in the way it stretched along the plain, in the mighty streaming of its tail upon the wind. Where had she seen this sight before? From the top of Mesa Grande that long past day when the unknown horseman at his hand's head had risen in his stirrups to wave his hat to her!

Nearer she leaned to the Redstar's neck—called in his ear with a panting cry—and the note of his running rose again! But that other—it, too, seemed gaining in speed! What had Velantrie said once? Within two seconds of the world's record! The two fastest horses in the southwest went neck and neck across the plain in a monstrous race with death—and there was out audience to see!

The sawtooth top of the cliff was stark against the sky. The black gut of the pass loomed out, a narrow streak in the face of the wall.
 She could see the great horse at her right drawing in toward her, narrowing the distance between! Oh, why did not its rider look at her! Could he not see that it was a woman who rode the Comet's rival?

But Velantrie did not turn. He was thinking his last sweet thoughts—bidding her farewell in the last few moments that he could call his own—for there were riders showing now on every hand.
 "Redstar!" screamed Val above the sounding hoofs. "Oh, sweetheart! With one last great burst of speed beat him in!"

The King of Paradise shot magnificently forward, thrust his reaching nose ahead of that other and thundered up, to slide and plough the earth into flying furrows, to stop at the rifle's mouth with his rider's arms upraised, as if to guard the masked man who slid to a stop behind.

A dozen hands were on her rein, and his head and desperate faces circled them on every side, and a mass of horsemen were thundering up from all points.
 "The Black Rustler!" they cried as they surged about. "We've got him, boys! An' his lieutenant—with the goods! Here's Black Princess doggin' the thief!"

Hurled forward from behind a rawboned horse—panting and wet, bore into the front, a huge figure of a man's swearing in fury and tearing at the forgotten mask upon his face.
 "Two!" the voices cried. "The two-man trick again!"

But Val Hannon rose in her stirrups and flung up a tragic arm.
 "Stop!" she cried. "Stop!"

They paid slight heed to her at first, for eager hands were on Velantrie's rein.
 "The horse!" they cried. "The wonderful horse! The Black Rustler's horse! Ain't no mistakin' him! It's too well known!"

But Val raised her own voice to a commanding cry.

"Look!" she cried. "At mine!"
 The tone caught the crowd and a second silence fell.

"Look at these two horses! Look hard, men!"
 The crowd dropped apart a bit the better to obey.

In astonished silence they stared hard at the two red stallions. Color for color—size for size—proud heads for proud heads—they were the same! Revividerment sat upon the faces of the ranchers.

"What's this?" said Boyce Clendenning at last. "Miss Hannon—what is this?"
 Val turned desperately to him.

"It is that—she caught her breath pitifully and then went swiftly on, 'that I ride—the Black Rustler's famous horse—Redstar of Paradise! And that—once more she caught her breath in that piteous grasp—she who had been so proud of all that the name of Hannon stood for—and that—the Black Rustler himself—my father, gentlemen—John Hannon, lies at home in his wife's bedroom—with—with—' she choked and stopped.

Not a man in that panting crowd but caught his breath and held it in waiting horror.

—With a buller in his head and with Belle Hannon—dead upon his breast!

A sharp sick cut into the tragic silence. It came from the lips of Velantrie, sitting like stone in his saddle.

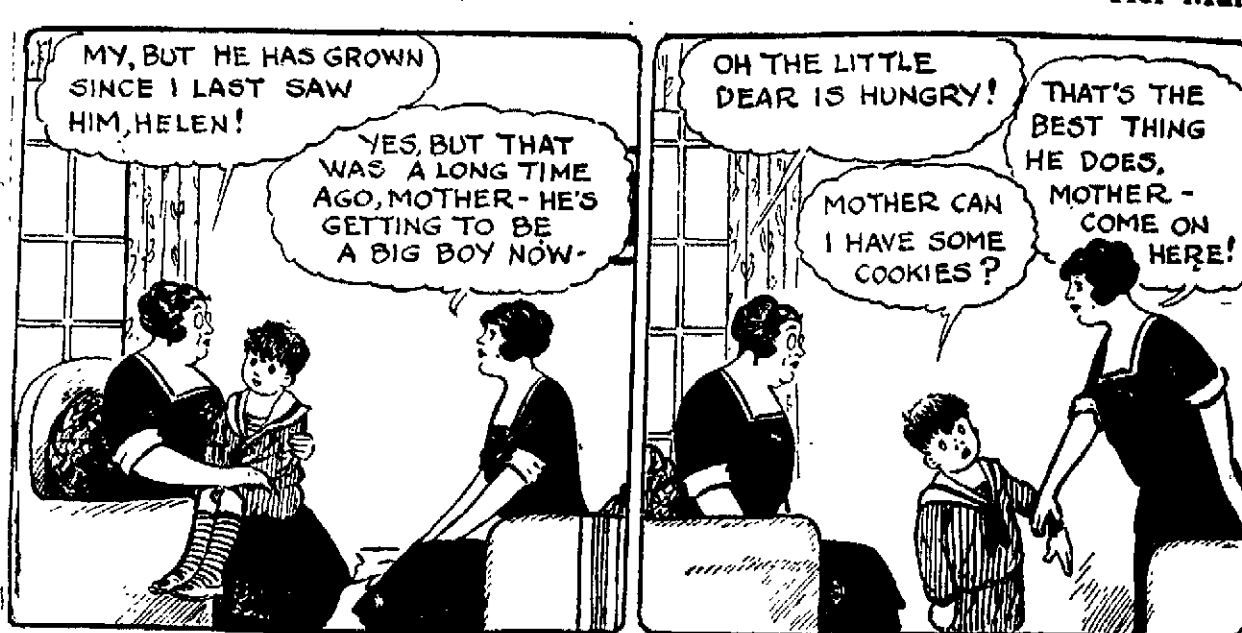

"Too late!" he breathed. "Too late!"
 There was a stir among the men. "Good God!" said Boyce Clendenning, helplessly. "are you mad, Val?"

"No," said she, "but desperately in earnest. Ride with me to Paradise—and prove it. This man," she turned to Velantrie and held out a steady hand, the unshaking hand of a woman strong, courteous to the foundations of her heart.

"This man was my father's enemy. He came to the ranchland to find—and kill him—for an old score." "No," said she, "but desperately in earnest. Ride with me to Paradise—and prove it. This man," she turned to Velantrie and held out a steady hand, the unshaking hand of a woman strong, courteous to the foundations of her heart.

"The best shot," she knew—was the best shot, you know." "The best shot," she knew—was the best shot, you know." "The best shot," she knew—was the best shot, you know."

HIGH WHIPS NEENAH, 25 TO 7, BEFORE BIG CROWD

1,100 PERSONS SEE NEIGHBORS IN CAGING TILT

Tapert Wins Wrestling Match From McKiesek In Short Order

Appleton high school basketball team finished its 1923 schedule Friday night by trouncing Neenah, 25 to 7, before a crowd that jammed every bit of available space in Armory G. Approximately eleven hundred persons, including about two hundred from Neenah and Menasha were not only witnesses at the caging battle but were nearly actual participants. With the fans pulling for their own team the armory was filled with a howling that spurred the players to the keenest playing of the season. It was a game of rivalry and nothing but. The tilt was a close guarding affair all the way and spills were numerous.

HELD TO THREE POINTS
Neenah was held to three points until the last few minutes of playing when Stulp and Kahlas ranging two shots in succession bringing the score to 7 for the Red and White, Appleton, due to the solid defense put up by Coach Jonas men were forced to resort to long distance shooting but it was much more fortunate than the victory.

Captain "Red" Ashman starred in the shooting department with five field goals. He played a good floor game and finished up the season with all the glory that is befitting a pilot.

LADY LUCK ABSENT
The work of Briese was not up to his past standard. He missed three attempts for free throws and Lady Luck refused to assist in the basket shooting.

Stulp probably deserves the laurels for the best all around performance of the evening. He landed four field goals and played a good passing game. Mills, too, played a stellar role while Hagen's guarding saved the game at numerous critical moments.

Stulp easily outshone his fellow teammates while Captain Gravel also was a star for his team. The Red and White captain, due to illness, was forced to retire after playing more than half of the game.

HOW THINGS STARTED
Neenah bunched its defense under the Appleton goal from the start. The Blue and Orange could get no closer than about the free throw mark. Appleton shot from the distance, "Red" Ashman chalked up the first field goal from the sidelines and more than half the length of the court. The ball sailed through the net without touching the steel rim. It was a pretty shot. Neenah rosters numbed "Luck."

Falling to land any baskets Coach Jonas called in Rylov, center and sent out Brendick, touted as the best shot in the Twin Cities. Ashman's second field goal brought the score to 4 to 0 as the white ended the first quarter.

SECOND QUARTER
Ashman ran into a personal foul and Craven missed one and made a free throw on his second try. Craven's intercepting as Appleton worked its way toward its own goal was remarkable. Neenah's guarding was "closer than ever experienced by Appletonians."

Heideman landed a double mark from the side. Hagen and Stulp ran into a corner while chasing the ball and the rivalry resulted in referee Fay calling a double foul. Briese missed the free throw and so did Craven. Stulp sent the ball sailing for a basket but it bounced out. Briese also shot in vain. Mills' basket brought the score to 10. Neenah and Appleton fans were almost wild. The first half ended 10 to 1.

THIRD QUARTER
Center Bryow entered the game as Brendick failed to live up to expectations. Heideman and Ashman scored four more points. Denney called in Briese and sent in Lutz. Neenah made a drastic change in the lineup, switching Schlagenhaut to Craven's place as the Red and White captain showed wear. Jorgenson was sent in as forward.

Neenah rosters rent the air as Jorgenson's shot bounced out and Mills dashed with the oval for his goal. The ball failed to get in but Ashman followed up the shot and pushed it in for a double marker.

Jorgenson retaliated with a field goal. It was the first on the Neenah side. Mills got a free throw and the score was 19 to 3 in the third quarter. Scheurle was in for Ashman.

FOURTH QUARTER
The Appleton captain returned to the game in the final quarter. A bit of loose guarding permitted Stulp and Kahlas to go through for a basket each. Field goals by Lutz, Heideman and Ashman brought Appleton's score to 25. Briese returned to the game for Lutz and Voigt went in for Hagen.

TAPPERT WINS MATCH
Not only did Appleton give Neenah a basketball licking but the Blue and Orange took away the wrestling laurels disputed between these two schools. Robinson McKiesek, Neenah student and former champion heavy-weight wrestler at the Lawrenceville, N. J. academy, was thrown in four minutes and 20 seconds by William Tappert, the Appleton student grappler. "Bill" got the fall via the body scissors. Though outwinded, by 20 pounds (Tappert weighs 170) "Bill" handled McKiesek with ease and lifted the Neenah boy in the air, though McKiesek offered a real resistance. Mac Kieck conceded the match to Tappert after the first fall. It was necessary to help the Neenah boy off the mat.

In a preliminary affair Rudolph Fischer, tipping the beams at 155 and

Neenah Given 24 To 9 Beating In Eighth Consecutive Victory

Going through the entire season without a single defeat Appleton high school seconds rang down the curtain on its own basketball schedule by defeating the Neenah Seconds in the opening game of the caging carnival in the Armory Friday night. Though evenly matched in weight and size the Appleton lads held the Neenah visitors to a 24 to 9 score. It was the eighth consecutive victory and brought the number of points gathered up for the season to 148. The Seconds permitted their opponents to get but 56 marks.

Kohl and Courtney again were the stars in the shooting and passing departments with Voigt holding undisputable laurels for defensive tactics. Vaughn and Hillman also played good games.

A pretty long distance shot by Center Erickson was the feature of the performance. The Neenah pivot man landed his marker at the start of the second half. It was so far off that it looked impossible but it went clean through the net.

The Neenah Seconds were held 14 to 3 in the first half. Appleton finished up with three subs. Gebhart refereed.

HANG UP 1,356 PINS IN DOUBLES

Iron Mountain, Mich. — Eugene Wright and Fred Wright of this city established an unofficial world's record in bowling for a competitive contest in the doubles here, when they rolled total of 1,356 pins for three games on the Recreation regulation tournament alleys. The scores follow:

Eugene Wright ... 199 236 257—692
Fred Wright ... 231 225 208—664
This is an average of 452 per game and 226 for each man. The total is ten pins more than the record made in the national bowling tournament at Peoria, Ill., in 1917 by G. Satorius and W. Holzschuh.

The Wrights made 38 strikes, 12 spares, no splits, and 4 errors. They were bowling in a sweepstakes tournament. They will also bowl for the doubles in the upper peninsula tournament which opens here on March 8 and closes on March 17.

WANT TO CLEAN OUT CARP FROM KOSHKONONG

By Associated Press.
Edgerton—Forty fishermen of this city went on record endorsing the Gage bill opening Lake Koshkonong and Rock River in Rock and Jefferson, to professional carp seiners. Carp is said to be destroying game fish and feeding grounds for ducks. The action taken, it is believed by the sportsmen will save the famous Koshkonong district. Janesville and Beloit previously had taken the same action.

Robert Joyce, 160 pounds, both Appleton high students, wrestled to an eight minute draw.

Four "goodfellowship" teams attacked the wood on the Elk floors Friday night and two of them managed to pile up scores big enough to get a place in the leaders' division but the markers do not count.

Sugerman's Specials would have landed in the fifth place of the five-man division had the R. P. O. E. listed in the entries made their appearance and rolled what the score sheet said they did. Sugerman's quint emerged with a total of 2,761 with a "pick up" star team doing the actual labor. The same squad got 2,713 for the Northern Hotel and had the score counted there would have been a tie for seventh place with the Boosters of New London.

Kurt Koletzke rolling for Baldwin on the Northern Hotel team and for Tucker on the Sugerman squad, was the star pin toppler, piling up 1,217 for the six games. Oscar Kuntz, J. F. Johnston, Phil Gearson and J. C. Weber were the other "subs."

GREATER CITY MOVEMENT IS NOW UNDERWAY

Speakers Describe Possibilities Of Wisconsin And Appleton

With telling figures, Mr. Williams showed the people who were present the extent of Wisconsin's blessing. He said that Wisconsin had had a higher yield per acre in potatoes, corn, rye, barley and wheat than any other state. He drew attention to the fact that most states have only one crop, but Wisconsin has diversified crops to say nothing of an immense dairy industry. He gave the figures from Dane county county which showed that that county is doing splendidly in its dairy industry, but that Outagamie county exceeds it by 1,000 pounds of milk daily and that Dane county cattle is worth on an average of $17 a head less than those in this county.

MADE 'EM THINK
Such facts as that Wisconsin ranks fourth or fifth in the production of tobacco and first second or third in potato production depending on the season made Appleton people think. He told that 70 per cent of all the cheese made in this country is made in this state.

"The dairying industry of Wisconsin amounted to $277,000,000 last year," said Mr. Williams. "That exceeds by $30,000,000 the entire iron ore output of the country. That is twice as much as the gold and silver mining in the same time and is equivalent to all the cotton which was mined in Michigan, Arizona and Montana."

The speaker said that the silos are the backbone of this industry and that Wisconsin has 85,000, as many as there are in Minnesota, Michigan and Iowa. He told of the splendid cow testing associations in this country.

MANUFACTURING STATE
Turning his attention to manufacturing, the speaker developed the wonderful possibilities of this state and took Milwaukee as an example of its diversified industries. He told of the output of the Palmolive company which amounted to three fourths of the toilet soap which was sold in the United States and Canada. He said that meant more money for Wisconsin than all the beer that all the breweries had made in Milwaukee during the best brewing year. He said that Milwaukee's shoe manufacturing amounts to three times as much as the beer did and that her steel amounts to ten times as much. He developed this subject by calling attention to the things which are manufactured in this valley alone.

His third subject was the wonderful recreational facilities in Wisconsin where there 500 miles of shore line on Lake Michigan and Lake Superior, 5,000 rivers and 3,000 lakes. He said that the state is rapidly attracting much tourist trade and that a man from Iowa has given the state its recreational slogan in "Wisconsin, the Land of the Blue Sky Water." He said that people who have always had plenty of water cannot appreciate the arid states from which the tourists come.

MUST CONTINUE CHAMBER
He closed by urging that every citizen go into developing Wisconsin not with the idea of what he can get out of it, but what service he can put in. He used many examples of the great development of men when they put their ability to serve a community together and work.

Mr. Keller made an appeal to the people to continue the chamber of commerce. He showed that in the past 50 years one organization of this kind has followed another and if the people allow this to fail, it will not be long before there will be another. He said that he thought lack of support of the chamber would be a step backward for the community when the state was going forward. He when the state was going forward. He paid a splendid compliment to Hugh Corbett's work as secretary here.

Mr. Ballantine announced that the drive for members will take place beginning next Friday. He urged the people present to sign the cards which were passed around pledging them to help the committees in every possible way.

THREE SPEAKERS AT MASS MEETING FOR SPORTSMEN
Motion Pictures Of Wisconsin Game To Be Shown At Vocational School

Three interesting addresses will entertain sportsmen who attend the mass meeting arranged by Outagamie Fish and Game Protective association at the Vocational school next Tuesday evening to formally launch the annual membership campaign. The drive begins the next day but new memberships and renewals now are being received.

Addresses will be given by Elmer S. Hall of the Wisconsin Conservation commission; B. O. Webster, in charge of the fish hatcheries, and E. D. Upson, lecturer for the conservation commission. Mr. Upson's address will be illustrated by motion pictures of Wisconsin game life.

The local association has been the largest and probably the most influential in the state and it is proposed to increase the membership this year to make it still more powerful. It has published the Wisconsin Game Protective association with two state presidents, Mark S. Catlin and Dr. J. A. Nelson.

INDIAN SCENE IN PAGEANT PORTRAYS 'STYLES' OF 1500

Flappers And Flippers Of 400 Years Ago Liked A Change Now And Then

The age-old "fuss" which the older generation always makes about the fashions and the whims of the younger generation will be shown in an interesting manner in the Spring Style pageant in Lawrence Memorial chapel March 15 and 16. Rehearsals are being held regularly and the parts are being well presented.

"Appleton in the year 1500" was rehearsed in Knights of Pythias hall Friday night. This scene shows the community long before Father Marquette came down the Fox, but it also shows that human nature then is as human nature now. There were the flappers, the anxious mothers, and interest in "what shall we wear."

Miss Ruth McKenna is the "chief" flapper of those days. Miss McKenna takes it upon herself to change the styles of the flappers to conform with her "modernized" ideas and of course all the flappers and flippers in the tribe must follow suit, much to the dismay of Mrs. John Engle, Jr., who in her younger days wasn't adverse to changing a style or two herself but she had dropped behind the procession and wonders "where the younger generation is going to." Just like the mother of 1925.

The flappers in the scene include Edna Schultz, Wilma Thiede, Florence Kahn, Violet Johnston, Dorothy Bell, Dorothy LaGest, Dorothy Doyle, Anita Nemacheck and Christine Dohr. George Dame, as "heap big chief" also gets in a word now and then on the follies of youth but younger bloods of his tribe are keen for the new styles and they work out a few of their own. The flippers in the scene are Edward Conant, William Conner, Edward Wilson, Otto Tank, Al Zweg and Arthur Howe.

Indian music and Indian dances help make the scene realistic. It is only one of the features of the style pageant.

AUTO FLEET QUITS TRIP AT KAUKAUNA

Roads Still Impassable To Green Bay, But Open Around Appleton

Seven Dodge motor cars that passed through Appleton this week en route from Detroit to the Carl Jones Motor Car company at Green Bay are halted at Kaukauna, where they will remain in storage until the roads are opened. The cars actually dug their way from Milwaukee to Kaukauna, but the drivers decided that enough was enough and left the cars there. Reports are still current of straggling cars forging through to Green Bay and back.

Automobile traffic is now opened for short distances such as from Appleton to Kaukauna, to Medina, to county snow plow and tractor is still Greenville and to Neenah. The county snow plow and tractor is still at work on state trunk highway 47 and has now worked as far as St. John Lutheran church, which is about two miles north of Mackville. Because of the snow banks on either side of the road and the impossibility of the thawing snow to seep through the concrete, the Mackville road pavement is in some places covered with a foot of water.

Side roads are reported to be in a deplorable shape as a result of the steady thaw. The hard snow has been transformed into soft slush through which horses must pick their way step by step. Rural carriers on Friday spent their longest day of the winter on the road, their horses having had to wade most of the way. Many farmers were seen shoveling on the road by way of remedying the situation.
